Launch Drive For Funds, Canadian Legion War Services

Plan to Start Now to Look
After Interests of Future
Veterans of This War

As will be noted by the advertising columns of this paper, the Vulcan branch of the Canadian Legion has launched a drive for funds to assist in the nation-wide effort to raise half-a-million dollars for educational and personal services to members of the Canadian Active Service Force.

It is particularly fitting that this very necessary work should be undertaken by the Legion, which organization has been entrusted with looking after the problems of the veterans of the last war and which is conversant with the difficulties and needs, both present and future. The membership of the Legion is made up of men who fought through the last war and understand very fully that difficult subject of the transition of the soldier to the citizen—from military to civil life. Because of the urgency, the necessity of a guiding body, the Legion has been given a mandate by the government to provide the machinery for educating the men and better fitting them for that time when they once again become civilians. In this undertaking, the Canadian Legion War Services have enlisted the co-operation of the Canadian Association for Adult Education. This means that the Canadian Legion commands the facilities of all of Canada's Universities.

Many soldiers are now moving overseas and the work which the Legion's educational helpers do voluntarily in Canada must now be extended abroad. This takes money, as do the other factors in organizing education on a large scale—books, stationery and the like. It is for this reason that on February 12th the Canadian Legion War Services launches its first national appeal. Although public thought just now is commendably devoted to the business of winning the war it is also necessary to think of the peace that is to follow and the future of those now serving in the Active Service Force. Help the Canadian Legion War Services plan today for tomorrow.

NOMINATED

HON. PETER DAWSON

Name Three Social Credit Nominees

Three Social Credit nominees were chosen at a Little Bow constituency nominating convention held here Monday afternoon in the Legion hall. Those named were Rev. Peter Dawson, present M.L.A., D. H. Russell of Carmangay, zone president; and W. D. Jackson of Milo. Other nominees, who declined to let their names stand, were Mrs. L. Roate of Armada, C. Dunham of Vulcan and W. Osler of Milo. Rev. Dawson is pastor of the Champion United Church and Mr. Russell and Mr. Jackson are farmers.

A capacity audience was present at the convention which was open to the press. 51 accredited delegates, representing 20 of the 27 registered groups were in attendance. It was stated that several more groups have been formed and will shortly be registered.

Mr. Dawson and Mr. Russell gave short addresses and outlined procedure to be followed.

Viola Peterson of Brant Killed, Others Injured in Car Accident

A shocking accident occurred about eight miles east of High River on Saturday afternoon about 4.30 when a carload of young people from Brant went over a steep hill on a road about one mile west of Jack Sutherland's on the Little Bow, resulting in death to Miss Viola Peterson of Brant, and injuries to others. Don Pearson, driver of the car suffered a fractured right shoulder. Victor Braunworth suffered from cuts, bruises and shocks, and his sister Miss Lillian Braunworth escaped with little injury. Miss Peterson was rushed to hospital, but died before midnight Saturday night as a result of fracture at the base of the skull, haemorrhage and shock.

This fatal accident was the second which occurred within twelve hours at the same point. The parties in the two cars were relatives, and the fact of the second car on the road was a consequence of the first accident. Mr. and Mrs. Hansell Husby of Meadowbank went over the embankment in their car about 4.30 on Saturday morning. Although they escaped with minor injuries, they were badly shaken up and Mrs. Husby, who was formerly a Miss Braunworth, got in touch with her relatives at Brant, asking that some members of the family come and help them till they were recovered. It was this request that started the young people from Brant across the country on Saturday afternoon.

The road on which the accidents occurred cuts off about 8 miles of travel for those travelling from Brant to Meadowbank district. It is quite well travelled, but offers danger under certain icy conditions. As a result of the accident to the Husby car, Mr.

12th Vulcan High School Banquet And Dance Outstanding Success

Capacity Crowds at Both
Banquet and Dance; Interesting Program Given by the Students

Held in the Oddfellows' hall last Friday evening, Feb. 2, the 12th annual banquet and dance of the Vulcan High School Students' Union, were attended by capacity crowds, reflecting the interest of parents and friends in the annual social function of the students.

A fine turkey dinner was served by the ladies and tribute is paid to the Grade 9 class for their efficient serving.

Edward Stack, president of the Students' Union, acted as toastmaster. The toast to the King was proposed by Miss Wilma Wismer, and everyone responded by singing the national anthem. The toast to the town was given by Miss Betty Ottewill, Mayor P. B. Discher replying. Frank Hoskyn's toast to the school board, was answered by L. H. Jones, chairman of the board, and the toast to the teaching staff, proposed by Miss Nora Collier, was responded to by Mr. Ross. Mrs. Ford Fisher replied to the toast to the ex-students, which was given by Douglas Smith. The toast to the guests, given by Miss Kathleen Craig, was answered by Miss Margaret Woodward. W. L. Irvine, school principal, thanked those who had helped to make the banquet a success. In his short talk, Mr. Irvine gave a few words of advice to the parents of the students and, addressing the students, urged them to fit themselves as well as possible to take their place in the world. They should not let the apparent prosperity of war years deceive them, he said, for there is bound to be a let-down when war ends. It is for this post-war era that they should prepare themselves now through education and training.

Following the banquet, a program was presented in the hall. A court scene was depicted, with the various participants in the program being brought before Judge Tom Ridley by Sheriff Don Johnson and sentenced to perform according to their talents. Bruce Middleton acted as clerk of the court and the items presented were as follows: piano solo by Lloyd Edgington; monologue by Joyce Denbigh, accompanied by Rhoda Scobbie; trumpet duet by Leslie Warden and Lloyd Clark; vocal solo by Edward Stack; reading of the school paper, The Re-taliator, by editor, Leta Robson.

After the program dancing was enjoyed until 2 a.m., music being furnished by the Turley orchestra. The hall and basement were both beautifully decorated in the school colors of green and white.

The success of this annual school event is a fine tribute to the capabilities of the students and the co-operation of friends and parents.

First Red Cross Shipment Sent

Ladies wishing to knit for the Red Cross may now do so, as a large shipment of yarn for making socks, sweaters, scarves, etc., as well as patterns for same, is now available. This is the first shipment of wool received, although it has long been on order, and while many ladies have been waiting patiently for a chance to knit, others have been busy sewing and three large orders have been completed and sent in, consisting of the following: 12 siding. An interesting and detailed report of the activities and financial standing of the Milo Co-operative Store was given by Mrs. F. Noble, who mentioned the proposal to change this business to a Consumers' Co-operative so as to benefit all purchasers and asked for the opinions and viewpoints of all who are interested in this change. Mrs. Clifford Love, delegate to the recent convention at Edmonton, gave an interesting and full account of the convention's proceedings and was accorded a hearty vote of thanks. All took part in the discussion of the report, which was unanimously adopted. The roll call was answered by each member asking a question of the delegate. After the meeting adjourned the hostess and committee provided a most enjoyable lunch. The next joint meeting will be held on Feb. 14 at the home of Mrs. W. Oldfield.

Wolfe Rink Wins At Calgary Bonspiel

A fine showing was made at the Calgary bonspiel last week by Jack Wolfe and his Vulcan rink. With Gus Spaeth, Clarence Robinson and Earl Patriquin on his rink, Mr. Wolfe won the Alberta Pacific Grain competition, defeating Carl Becker of Crossfield 14-7 in the final. The Wolfe rink placed third in the Imperial Motors event and finished second in the grand aggregate, having nine wins and only one loss.

Tommy Lebeau's rink also got into the prizes, taking third place in the Gas Company event.

"CHAFF"

BY STUBBLE-JUMPER

Ralph Pritchard has evidently changed the names of those nags again that pull his carriage around. At any rate, the name he was calling them this week was considerable different from last week. Now when he talks to them sweetly they think he is fooling.

Pretty sleepy-looking bunch of young gaffers around town after the high school shindig Friday night. Everybody had a real good time evidently and outside of a few barked shins appears none the worse for wear. A certain high school teacher rather disappointed the young girls by not accepting their request to step out and swing.

We noticed Bruce McKay sporting a bruised cheek and we're wondering if he forgot and trumped his partner's ace in a bridge game. We hardly think Norm Scotney is big enough to plant it there, Bruce.

JACK SPEAKS UP

Mr. Editor:

I take exception to the remarks of "Stubble-Jumper" regarding my joining the ranks of smokers who "roll their own." I wish to state that one reason for so doing was for self-preservation from the inroads made in my packs of T.M.'s by such persons as S. J. himself, who are inveterate smokers of O.P.'s and who took advantage of my good nature. Furthermore, I believe that the author of the words "horrible brand" would be the first to rally to its defence. Right, S. J.?

In closing I wish to thank said columnist for clearing up that burning question of why we see so many incinerators leading the young fellows around. Yours, still rolling,

Seek Good Government

IT is quite possible that the provincial contest may split into three or four parties in many ridings, thus resulting in a government which may not after all represent the majority of the voters of the province. The outcome of an election does not always represent "the will of the majority of the people."

Whatever party may be elected to legislate for Alberta in coming years, it is certain that the great proportion of the people are agreed on one point, regardless of political bias. They want a reduction in taxation. This reduction could be assured if the supporters of every party made it a major condition of their support.

It is probably safe to say that the majority of the people also want a well defined clear policy in respect to public and private debt. They would ask some moderate course, that would not offer loopholes through which the dishonest might escape from obligations, but would protect the honest debtor from unfair exploitation and pressure.

Whatever government comes into power it is undoubtedly the wish of the people that no change be made in the R.C.M.P. service and that the existing policing system be continued.

There is the general belief that the revenue from automobile licenses and gas taxes, which amounts to almost $5,000,000 gross revenue, should be definitely earmarked for highways. This policy has been consistently fought by different governments, but might be secured if it were made a condition of support of a candidate.

Many people, striving to keep an open mind on the question of large school units, are of the opinion that after a five-year test, these will have proved themselves for good or ill, and that after such a testing period, a vote should be taken amongst the taxpayers to determine the continuance or otherwise.

Of concern to all responsible citizens is the necessity for reduced expenditures in almost every department of government operation. Only in this way can reduction in taxation be realized. With dominion taxation increased, and likely to increase further, for war purposes, any provincial government which may be elected must institute measures of economy, in place of riotous spending.

Who May Vote in Federal Election?

THE Dominion Elections Act of 1938 has the following requirements for a voter in the federal election: He must be 21 years of age on or before the polling day; British subject by birth or naturalization; ordinarily resident in the dominion twelve months immediately preceding polling day; and resident in the electoral district at the date of issue of the writ for the election.

Every person is a British subject who (a) is born in any of His Majesty's Dominions or on a British ship, no matter what was the nationality of his or her parents; (b) was born elsewhere of a father who, at the time of the child's birth, was a British subject; (c) or has been personally naturalized under the Imperial Naturalization Act in Canada or in other of the Dominions; (d) or has had his name included in certificate of naturalization granted a parent under the same Act; (e) is the child of a person naturalized in Canada before Jan. 1, 1918, other than under the Imperial Naturalization Act, and was a minor and a resident of Canada at the time of the naturalization of the parents.

A woman becomes a British subject if she has married a man who at date of marriage was born or naturalized British subject. Or if she married a man who was alien at time of marriage, but became naturalized prior to Jan. 15, 1932. If a woman marries an alien who becomes naturalized after Jan. 15, 1932, she may acquire citizenship by registering a declaration that she desires to acquire British nationality.

There are several ways in which British nationality may be lost. An individual may become naturalized in another country; or if naturalized here may have the certificate of naturalization cancelled. A woman who has before Jan. 15, 1932, married a man who at date of marriage was not a British subject loses her citizenship. A woman who after Jan. 15, 1932 marries an alien has by virtue of the marriage acquired her husband's nationality. A woman whose husband has ceased to be a British subject, may register a declaration that she desires to retain her British nationality. Otherwise she acquires her husband's change of allegiance.

A Community Chest

IN commenting on the inevitable scattering of effort, which comes through the numerous appeals for funds for war services, the Calgary Herald says:

"In connection with every drive for funds there is inevitably a considerable outlay for organization, advertising, etc. A great deal of this outlay could be avoided if there were co-ordination. If the Red Cross, Salvation Army and Canadian Legion had pooled their drives for funds an appreciable sum would have been saved in the way of organization and promotion costs. Instead they come separately with separate directors, separate publicity, separate office costs, and so forth.

"The factors that apply in favor of the creation of a,

Pertinent Topics

DISCUSSED BY H. C.

Many years ago, a man wrote to his father in Ireland urging him to come to Canada at once because any damned fool can be a magistrate. In England it is quite an honor to be a J.P. It links you up with the county and makes you a Squire. The appointment of J.P.'s is the only patronage now left with members supporting the government and it is eagerly sought. That is why R. B. an ex-Prime Minister of Canada, was glad to accept the honor. How well he will fill it we do not know. We never did think he had the judicial temperament. If we were over there within his jurisdiction we could tell the boys what sort of offences might meet with his indulgence and what sort they should not commit if they would avoid his wrath and reprobation. He is like the rest of us in that way. Perhaps a little more so.

In the distribution of plums, a government has to take many things into consideration. When Mr. Bennett called Pat Burns to the Senate it was to a seat formerly held and therefore claimed by French Catholics; but squared the account by giving what was considered an Irish-Catholic seat in Saskatchewan to a French Catholic. Having got back their Alberta seat, we shall wait and see whether they give up the seat they gained in the neighboring province.

If all that Germany wants is living space, Mr. Stalin can oblige. There are all sorts of it in Russia, especially in Siberia. There is room for two Germanys in Russia-in-Asia alone. With this new axis working, Stalin can call off the war by allowing Germans to make use of the Russian spaces that are so desirable. The small countries that have been conquered or annexed are densely populated and do not offer that vital space which Russia can give to its ally.

Although we have stern measures against publication of things that might undermine war effort, our newspapers carried Hitler's recent speech in full. The reason for this is that anything he says now is more likely to have the opposite effect. It is important only as indicating what sort of stuff he thinks necessary to give his own people, and is interesting to us only as furnishing a contrast to what he said on other occasions. He had to revise his book when he lined up with Moscow, and now he must delete several passages in which he spoke well of Britain. The passages condemning France were embarrassing to him when he was trying to drive a wedge between Britain and France. Those passages will now remain. He sneers at Chamberlain's bible-carrying, but there is a prayer in it that has been answered "O, that mine enemy would write a book!" For sometime it was said that he carried out religiously all he had written in "Mein Kampf." He must wish now he had never written it.

The Italian papers were quite pleased with that speech because in it Hitler spoke of the axis as if it existed. They did not like his reference to Russia, however. This shows jealousy. Italian neutrality still consists in deriding France and Britain; assailing Russia and saying nothing evil about Germany. That shows that Mussolini has not yet decided which side is going to win.

They tell of a young chap in Regina, who signed up and went into a very ill-fitting uniform. Knowing nothing about military matters, he did not salute an officer. To call his attention to his delinquency the officer stopped him, and said: "Do you see my uniform?" The young recruit said: "Yes, that's something like it, but see what a hell of a fit they gave me."

The manner in which this election was sprung may influence the result. The time and the manner in which Mr. Duplessis went to the country hurt his cause, yet the men who condemned him most have done the same thing, except that their timing is worse. Mr. Duplessis at least selected a month in which decent weather could be expected. Moreover he did not call the members together at some expense and inconvenience, to acquaint them personally with the fact that they were no longer members. It does not seem good politics to anger people before appealing for their support.

It is not yet clear why he did it. The cause he assigns arose in time for him to cancel the assembly of parliament. He had said he would reply to the charges of Mr. Hepburn and Col. Drew, not in the newspapers but in parliament. What made him change his mind at the last moment? His objection to carrying on the war while being held up to criticism in the House and the country is not one that should come from him. It is not pleasant of course, but it is done in England and Mr. Chamberlain has to put up with it. Mr. King has always held that parliament was the proper place to air complaints and grievances.

Mr. King gets some strange ideas into his head at times. Inasmuch as the people know who the members of his Cabinet are he insists that Dr. Manion should specify whom he intends to take into his cabinet. He posed the same proposition to R. B. Bennett in 1930. He ought to know from his experience in 1921 that an opposition leader cannot disclose in advance whom he will take into the ministry. He may have a good idea as to a few of them and in some instances may intimate that if So and So is elected he will be taken into the Cabinet, but he is under no obligation to mention any names. Those who insist he should be actuated by the same motives as those who demand that the Allies should now disclose their peace terms.

The division of free time over the radio among the parties on the basis of their 1935 votes is fair enough, but the C.B.C. is now giving time to its own official observer that might well be charged to the government's campaign fund. The government's case with respect to war preparations has already been adopted by the C.B.C. and exploited as its own. It is not likely, therefore, to give assent to any party broadcast that assails the case it is now presenting.

Community Chest to dispense relief and charity in individual communities like Calgary or Vancouver apply equally well to Dominion-wide objectives of a similar nature.

"Three unanswerable arguments in favor of a community chest plan are: Money, hitherto dispersed in many overhead charges is saved for actual charitable work to which it has been contributed; the public is not harassed by numerous appeals, but by one major appeal; the contribution is spread over every section of the community."

ANY DAY A FISH DAY

Canadian Legion War Services Inc.

Next week you will be asked to give a donation to the Canadian Legion War Services Fund.

This money will be spent to help your son - husband - brother - cousin - friend. The appeal itself has the endorsement of the Governor-General, the Prime Minister and the Canadian Red Cross.

While there may be a tendency to regard this as just another war appeal, remember you are lucky if you only contribute money. Others are offering their lives.

The collector who calls and the organization that handles the money receive no commission of any sort. Every dollar you give will go to work for you.
